SCOTTISH ANTIBODY PRODUCTION UNIT

Scottish Antibody Marketing - Income 2995 (a) Generation

The following papers were tabled:

- (i) a revised version of the circulated paper agreed by the Working Group on 22 June 1990 containing the above income generation proposal;
- a Sensitivity Analysis produced at the request of Mr Blanche;
- (iii) copies of two Insurance Reports.

Dr Munro and Mr Roy spoke to the tabled documents.

In granting approval in principle to the proposed scheme, which required Departmental approval, the Committee further agreed that the attention of the Department be drawn to the following:-

- (a) the scheme would be a marginal activity which would complement the routine operations of the Scottish Antibody Production Unit and would not detract from the main objectives of SAPU;
- (d) should the scheme fail, the maximum financial risk to which the Agency would be exposed would be approximately £100,000, in respect of salary and redundancy costs;

the scheme would not involve the build-up of stocks of products at least until such time as it was possible for a full risk assessment based on real operating experience to be carried out;

the Agency was not prepared to proceed with the scheme unless it was permitted to retain and utilise the income generated; and the Agency would determine how the income so generated should be disbursed; clearly it was envisaged that SAPU would benefit to some extent from income being utilised in support of the development of its core activities; however, the Agency would reserve the right to utilise the income as it saw fit, and SAPU could have no guarantee of benefiting from the income.

- (f) time was of the essence in obtaining approval to the scheme so that an early appointment of a Business Development Manager could be made to enable market opportunities to be grasped.

The Committee noted the circulated Minute.

HEPATITIS C TESTING

2996 The Committee noted the circulated paper dealing with plans for testing blood donations for Hepatitis C. It was likely that up to 100,000 tests per annum would be needed at a cost of £1.3 million. Should testing be started during the current financial year, funding would have to come from the contingency fund because there would be no additional finance available from Scottish Home and Health Department. For the future it was anticipated that a bid for recurring resources in PES 1990 would be successful.

CAPITAL PROGRAMME 1990/91

2997 In granting approval to the circulated paper containing the programme of capital. expenditure for 1990/91, the Committee were concerned to note the difficulties which had been met concerning the availability from Grampian Health Board of the site for the new Aberdeen Blood Transfusion Centre and the steps being taken to resolve them.

ANNUAL ACCOUNTS 1989/90

2998 The Committee adopted the Annual Accounts for the Agency for the year to 31 March 1990 subject to correction of minor textual errors.

In adopting the Accounts the Committee noted a report by the Director of Finance that for the future the Agency was moving to a system of commitment accounting with in the current year a transition to an income and expenditure basis.
